DOUGLASS & HAERING

Have Auto Livery--First in the Pass--Being Well Patronized

Edward Douglass and John Haering, of Lethbridge, have opened an auto livery in Blairmore and "honk, honk" is now quickly becoming a popular sound around these parts and indicates that the new enterprise is being well patronized.

Messrs. Douglass and Haering have the honor of being the first Pass residents to own and operate two large and first-class automobiles in the Pass. These machines are of the Palladi and McLaughlin make, are very strong, well and comfortably built, have excellent motors and make good speed and can each accommodate six passengers.

Messrs. Douglass and Haering have been kept very busy since their arrival in the Pass in carrying passengers and work from Coleman or Crow's Nest to Burnside.

We had the pleasure of being driven over the road between Coleman and Blairmore this week and would highly recommend to those who desire a quick and safe journey.

We regret to say, though, that the government roads along the Pass are in poor condition for carrying much less automobile use, and we would inform the government of the urgent necessity of giving us a road, between the two towns along the Pass over which vehicles could pass without the occupants living being constantly in danger.

Now, that we are getting up-to-date so far as our own civic affairs are concerned, and that the Pass has now an auto livery, the government should consider our case and repair out those neglected roads--thereby lessening the dangers and decreasing the number of accidents.

To be convinced that the government road along the Pass has been sadly neglected and is greatly in need of immediate repairs, one has only to see the road through the Frank slide when they would find a narrow and stony passage walled on either side by large and sharp pointed boulders. Many accidents have happened on this road and numerous appeals were made to the Rutherford government to have this road repaired but apparently no attention was given us and the actions of that party in this regard were, to say the best, very inhuman.

We hope that the present government will soon repair their roads along the Pass and have some consideration for the long suffering public.

We congratulate Messrs. Douglass and Haering on this new enterprise for the convenience of the travelling people of the Pass. We wish them every success and hope that the time is not far distant when an auto garage, to be made necessary by a large number of automobiles in the Pass, will be established in Blairmore.

We are now enjoying the Indian summer.

BUILDING CON- TINUES BRISK

Brick and Cement Large-

Buildings

BUILDERS ARE BUSY

More Business Men Coming in and Blairmore
Continues to Grow

As fast as time flies just so fast do buildings go up in Blairmore. The buildings are not all frame ones but brick, of our own make, is used in the construction of many of our large buildings.

Steve Novaria has just enlarged his store which is now 85 feet long. Early in the spring, Mr. Novaria will still increase the size of his building and will widen it from 24ft. to 49ft. This will then be one of the best buildings in town.

Peter Nicfor has almost completed his cement building. This building is being erected at the North end of his old baker's shop and is 22 x 24, two stories and a full basement. Soon after the new building is completed, Mr. Nicfor intends to have the old frame building removed and to be replaced by a large brick structure leading back from the street to the cement building. The cement building will be used as a bakery where furnaces and ovens will be installed and the brick building will probably be used as a shop where bread, cakes, pies, etc. will be sold.

Another improvement in the show-meet next week when contractors Frayer and Sinclair will commence pulling down the old building which is near Lemieux's barber shop and which is now occupied by Kali Bros., and erect a two-story frame structure for John S. McEwen, of Moyie, B. C., who purchased the lot from A. A. Sparks last week, for the sum of $3,000. The building will be 25 feet wide and 45 feet long. The ground floor will be used as a store while the second floor will be fitted up for the purpose of holding lodge meetings etc.

Let us love! Let us enjoy the fugitive hour! Man has no harbor, time has no shores; it runs, and we pass.

Rheumatism Disappeared When the Poisons Were Removed From the System by DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

Experiments are sometimes necessary and almost always expensive. It is usually wise to let others do the experimenting and profit by their experience.

When it is a matter of regulating the liver, kidneys and bowels and driving out of the system the poisons which cause rheumatism, backache, lumbago and other pains, and when experience has proven that Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills are the most effective treatment available.

They are different from ordinary kidney medicines in that they regulate the liver and bowels, as well as the kidneys; and in this way get at the very source of trouble.

Let others experiment if they will. This letter shows what experimenting cost one man, and may have had somewhat similar experience.

Mr. James Clarke, Maidstone, Sask.

"I have great pleasure in testifying to the good results I have obtained by using Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills. For four years I suffered from rheumatism in my shoulders and back, and could not lift my arms above my head. I tried nearly all the advertised remedies. Lots of them were to be sure cures, but none of them gave me relief.

"I was then persuaded to use Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills and soon found relief. By following up this treatment a thorough cure was brought about and for six months I have been free from rheumatism. It cost me at least one hundred dollars in experimenting before using Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills, which cured me at the cost of 25 cents a box."

You can be sure of definite, beneficial results when you use Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills. One pill a dose. 25 cents a box. All dealers or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto. Write for free copy of Dr. Chase's Recipes.

BABY'S TERRIBLE ECZEMA

Hands Tied to Prevent Scratching.

Five Doctors Failed to Relieve, but Zam-Buk Worked a Cure.

Mrs. Shas, Levere, of Prescott, North Channel, Ont., tells how Zam-Buk cured her baby's terrible eczema. "My baby's head and face was one complete mass of sores. The itching irritation was fearful, and the little one's night was so serious that at one time we feared her case would be eaten off by the disease."

"We had to keep her hands tied for days to prevent her rubbing and scratching the sores. Doctor after doctor treated her in vain, until we had five doctors. They all agreed it was a frightful case of eczema, but none of them did any permanent good."

"As a last resource, we were advised to try Zam-Buk. The first box did so much good that we felt sure we were at last working in the right direction. We persevered with the treatment until we had used thirteen boxes, and at the end of that time the eczema had disappeared. Zam-Buk had effected a complete cure."

Mrs. Holmes, of 30 Guise Street, Hamilton, is quite as eloquent in her praise. She says: "Zam-Buk cured my child's eczema. When he was so bad that he had been up to his neck in medicine, and mothers throughout the land should always keep it handy."

For eczema, eruptions, rashes, teething, ringworm, and similar skin diseases, Zam-Buk is without equal. It also cures cuts, burns, scalds, rashes, abscesses, chronic sores, blood poisoning, etc. All druggists and stores at 50 cents a box, or 50¢ for five boxes from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. Refuse imitations.

"I don't like to see a woman play for money," said the bridge whistler.

"You don't? Why do you go to the theatre then?"—Yorkers Statesman.

Very many persons die annually from cholera and kindred summer complaints, who might have been saved if proper remedies had been used. If attacked do not delay in getting a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial. It can be got at small cost at any drug store or general dealer's, and it will afford relief before a doctor can be called.

"I suppose," began the inquiring summer visitor enigmatically, "that it's wealth in this part of New Hampshire is in the soil?"

The native regarded the shining blade of his scythe reflectively. "I reckon it is," he mildly assented. "I don't know, anywhere, but abouts that ever got any out of it."—Youth's Companion.

No better cigarette the world over than

WESTMINSTER ABBEY.

The Origin of the Old Saying, "Robbing Peter to Pay Paul."

The greatest landmark in London is doubtless St. Paul's. Its massive outline and lofty towering dome, whether seen from the busy street or the quiet river constitute a characteristic feature and form a picture which out of countless spectacles and the blur of seemingly endless traffic most visitors take away with them as the predominant impression of the greatest city in the world.

It is, however, to Westminster Abbey that the tourist naturally turns when he desires to see a standing embodiment of antiquity and the greatest of the British Empire. It is more than 600 years older than St. Paul's. Founded in 1065 by the gentle King, Edward the Confessor, it was in the following year the coronation of Norman William and the interment of the previous royal line. Filled with the tombs of kings and poets, warriors and statesmen, of prelates and scholars, it is a place alike to the memory and the imagination and arouses an interest that goes on increasing with the flow of time.

Yet, says a writer in The Washington Post, of the hundreds of thousands of foreigners who visit Westminster Abbey annually, it is mostly laymen who are of the proper type and title of the venerable pile. Nor is this strange, for the British people themselves have in the long lapse of ages and in the vicissitudes which the ages have brought ceased to remember the late Dean Stanley, who loved the glorious old church with a great love, once remarked that there are probably not few Englishmen who care to be reminded that the full title of Westminster Abbey is the collegiate church, or Abbey of St. Peter.

Stanley also adopted the opinion generally held that the phrase "Robbing Peter to pay Paul" took its origin from the diversion of certain of the abbey's lands to the benefit of the old St. Paul's. This view, however, is not generally accepted, for the saying "Crucifying Paul to redeem Peter" is traceable as far back as the twelfth century. The phrase "Robbing St. Peter to clothe St. Paul" is found in 1515, and a similar locution occurs in early French.

The form of the expression now in vogue was solidified and rendered current by the agitation started in the city of London, as distinct from the city of Westminster, where the abbey stands, that the great Earl of Chatham should be buried at St. Paul's. To deprive the abbey, in favor of the younger St. Paul's, the distinction of enshrining the remains of the greatest statesman that in her rough island story England has produced would be to rob Peter to pay Paul with a vengeance.

The point was made, and the fact that the peculiar form of verbiage has ever since had an abiding place in the English language.

Queen Mother's Kindness.

Lord Tenynson, the late poet laureate, used to make a story showing the thoughtfulness of Queen Alexandra. It was on the occasion of a voyage with Mr. Gladstone, and many distinguished people were on board. Tenynson, as related by a friend of his, read, "The Grandmother on board because the Princess of Wales asked for it. 'I read it,' said Tenynson, 'in a cabin on deck. The princess sat close to me on one side and a young lady whom I didn't know on the other. The wind came through an open window, and the princess whispered, 'Put on your hat, but I said I ought, if possible, to make myself bolder than ever before at many royalties. She said again, 'Oh, put it on' so I did, and I heard afterwards that the King of Denmark's court fool, who was in the background (they really kept a court fool), remarked 'He may be laureate, but he has not learned court manners.' When I was done the ladies praised me and I passed the unknown one on the back by way of reply, and presently I found that she was the Empress of Russia."

"Hardly any. He said he couldn't speak English. Perhaps he was disgusted at my putting his wife on the back. His head was up in the cabin ceiling as he walked about below."

Gypsy Wordless Language.

To communicate with one another, gypsies now use letters—and they use the telegraph, too, when necessary—especially in this country. But the modern Romany also follows the "patteran," tracing the footsteps, or wagon tracks, of his friends on the road by the same method employed by his ancient prototype, reading directions where no words are written as clearly as the gorgio does a roadside signboard. But the patteran can be read by the gypsy only—it is hidden and secret, although it may be in plain sight, as a signboard is open and public. The patteran may be formed of sticks or stones or grass, placed cross fashion at the parting of roads in such manner that only a gypsy would instantly notice and understand. To him it means much; first of all the direction taken by Romany predecessors.

Birth Taxes in England.

The reign of Henry VIII. should have been a good one for the barbers. Men were then taxed for wearing beards and the tax was graduated according to the social standing of the wearer. A sheriff at Canterbury paid three shillings and fourpence for the privilege of wearing whiskers. Queen Elizabeth was even more stringent. She decreed that a man without a beard of two weeks' growth, at one time there was a law levied on births, a sliding scale was adopted. The child of a duke cost his father $100 in 1605, while the tax was only two shillings on a poor commoner. Widowers and bachelors also were taxed.

The Best Liver Pill—The action of the liver is easily disarranged. A sudden chill, undue exposure to the elements, over-indulgence in some favorite food, excess in drinking, are a few of the causes. But whatever may be the cause, Parment's Vegetable Pills can be relied upon as the best corrective that can be taken. They are the leading liver pills and they have no superiors among such preparations.

The Quality of Mercy
See the woman. Why is the woman's hat trimmed with a nestful of little birds? The woman wishes to trim her hat with the mother bird brooding them?
It is because the woman is merciful. She wishes to trim her hat with the mother bird brooding them, rather than to leave the birdlings starve she trimmed it with the whole family.
It is not that she feels lovely to be merciful like that?

Then There Was a Hush
"And so on," said Mr. Blown, "which side of the house the boy got his temper from."
"And so on," replied Mrs. Blown, "if you were here he got his inability to control it."

Birdie McGinnis (to her best young man)—Did you meet father last night as you were going out?
"No. We were both going in the same direction, only I was about two feet ahead of him."

OUR MOTTO

If there is a chance to boom business, boom it. Don't be a knocker. When a stranger drops in tell him yours is the greatest town on earth. Don't roast. Be jolly. Get popular, it's dead easy. Keep yourself along. Push your ground with you, soon you will have a whole possession. Be a good fellow. No man ever helped himself by knocking the other fellow. No man ever got rich by trying to make people think that he was the only good man, on earth. All men are not alike. Some are different. If you don't like their style, let them alone. Don't knock. You'll get used to it. It makes people like you better.

Take a good drink of kalamity when you feel like it—and no more. Always smoke a club cigar. Don't send your money to Eaton's when you can get as good at home. When you want town lots call on Archie McLeod at the Blairmore real estate office where you can always get good bargains. Don't forget that your father was a gentleman and your mother a lady, and that you can act the same by following the above motto.—Blairmore Real Estate Office.

MRS. ANDERSON
TELLS HOW, AFTER GIVING UP HOPE, SHE WAS CURED OF DANDRUFF

After reading this straightforward statement of Mrs. Elizabeth B. Anderson, of Merchantsburg, Pa., go S. J. Watson's, Blairmore, get a large bottle of Parisian Sage for only 50 cents, and if it doesn't do for you, what it did for Mrs. Anderson, will give you your money back. Just read this letter, it's worth your while:

"I had given up hope of ever being cured of dandruff, when I purchased a bottle of Parisian Sage. It has entirely removed the dandruff, and has started a growth of new hair, and all this after having been troubled for 15 years. I cheerfully recommend Parisian Sage."

Parisian Sage cures dandruff, because it gets right down into the roots of the hair and kills the thousands of pernicious dandruff germs. Since the introduction of Parisian Sage into Canada, it has been in demand by thousands of up-to-date society women. Parisian Sage will turn harsh, untidy, ill-looking hair into bright, luxuriant hair in a few days. It is a delightful and invigorating dressing, contains no dye or harmful ingredients and is not sticky or greasy. The girl with the dandruff tangle on every package.

Oldest Woman's Claim Is Now Contested

The claim of Frau Dutkewitz of Posen, born on February 21, 1785, to be the oldest woman in the world, is now contested by Mrs. Baba Vasilka, who was born in May, 1784, in the little Bulgarian village of Bavelko, where she has lived ever since. The record of her birth is preserved in a neighboring monastery of the Orthodox Greek faith. Baba Vasilka is the daughter of a peasant, and worked herself as a peasant up till a comparatively recent date. For more than a hundred years she regularly worked in the fields, according to the custom of her country, where women are employed in all sorts of manual labor. Where she was born Bulgaria was merely a province of the Turkish Empire, and the entire population groined under the tyranny of their Turkish rulers.

VARICOSE VEINS CURED

NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT.
Confined to His Home for Weeks.

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on Varicose Veins. When I would bend the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope, but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but none found out all they wanted was my money. I was obliged to look upon all doctors as liars, better than honest. One day my boss asked me why I was so weak so much and told him my condition. He wanted me to consult Dr. Kennedy & Kennedy, as he had been treated from them himself and knew they were square and skilled. I wrote them and got Dr. Kennedy's name. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month I was confined to my room. However, a continued treatment for three months brought me all was rewarded with a complete cure. I could hardly walk 2 1/2 weeks. It is a miracle story before treatment, nor I am satisfied but never longer a day. I wish all suffering from your trouble to consult Dr. Kennedy & Kennedy."

POOR JOAN OF ARC

Some Mites That Have Hampered Pageants.

It pays her to do nothing else, they have given rise to a new proverb. That "Every pageant has its hitch" has developed into quite a by-word, and is a statement anyone who has been connected with these twentieth-century innovations will readily corroborate.

On the other day the Army Pageant contributed its quota. As Joan of Arc, Mrs. Hobbler had just finished leading her French knights at the charge, and was about to pass out of the exit, when the large white horse, which she was seated, plunged, bringing its rider heavily to the ground. Her fall was made much worse by the weight of the armor she was wearing and the heavy banner which she carried. Her face cut, and considerably bruised, she was carried to the hospital.

On the incidents in the Bath Pageant last year reached an unexpected pitch of "realism." In the Algonquin scene a Saxon had rushed up the temple steps, he was stabbed by a lady-in-waiting, and rolled from top to bottom of the steps. A slip caused the player to strike his head violently as he fell, rendering him temporarily unconscious; and what was thought to be an especially clever device of acting was warmly applauded by the spectators.

Bain is the great burlesque of the pageant-maker, and the first performance of the Tiford Pageant had to be postponed owing to the disappearance of the Roman and the medieval courier exchange views on the unkindness of Fate. The master forces to smile and joke in the process of disrobing. Queen Elizabeth, in the glory of robes of pearls, ruffs, and golden garments, had to be hustled unceremoniously into a four-wheeled cab, while the harder knicker of St. John rode a water-proof over his armor, and strode home.

At a local pageant in Norfolk, however, the players defied the elements. Despite a heavy downpour, they went through the whole performance under umbrellas, the spectacle of St. George and the Dragon in mortal combat, each armed with a "bobby" hand, providing not the least entertaining feature. The play had played an important part in an unheated incident which occurred at the Oxford Pageant last year, when the players of the Oxford University Dramatic Society, who was playing the part of Friar Laurence, had to be rescued from a motor-car resembling a dragon, and, after rounding behind the stage, crossed the arena at half speed. On the second entry, he failed to turn quickly enough, and plunged headlong into the river. His emergency exit was a splash, with his beard washed off, and the water he had drunk from the deep water a little later.

Probably no pageant has excited more interest or looked more like a like that of Coventry. A storm of indignation was aroused by the decision that the pageant should represent Lady Godiva, clad only in fleshings and a transparent gauze cloak. Residents were appalled at the news, and declared that the procession must not be tolerated; while the mayor threatened to resign. And in the end, La Milo wore a dress heavier than that used by most horsewomen, together with a long-haired wig weighing over 2-1/2 pounds, to cover it.

The "Pink Pyjama Girl."

This was the name bestowed upon that popular actress, Miss Pauline Chase, who wanted Mr. Graham White to take her up in his aeroplane recently, when she appeared alone years ago in a play called "The Liberty Bells." In the course of which a number of girls appeared in a bedroom scene dressed in nightgowns. Miss Chase, however, had always been accustomed to pyjamas, and suggested to the management that they should let her appear in pyjamas, as she might feel strange and awkward in a nightgown.

"This was agreed to," says Miss Chase, "but at the last moment, when I came on in my pink pyjamas, I suddenly became extremely self-conscious. So much so that I hurried across the stage, jumped into the big bed which figured in the scene, pulled the clothes over my head, and in muffled but decided tones refused to 'come out.' This quite impromptu piece of business, however, produced roars of laughter, such as are rarely heard at a dress rehearsal, and the next night I had to repeat it, when it seemed just to tickle the audience to death, and in a few days' time I was known as the 'Pink Pyjama Girl.'"

Rev. Thomas Edgerton, formerly rector of High Road, Essex, England, recently commended his duties as vicar of Stratford, and in an address from the pulpit explained why he had transferred from the one living to the other, having sacrificed about $200 a year.

He said before he knew that the British living was vacant, he was in the middle of the night at High Road, and heard a strange passage of Scripture ringing in his ears. This child away and nurse it for me, and I will give thee thy wages. The fear said he thought there must be a child in distress at High Road, and he searched out the parish for two days to see if there was anyone being neglected, but he could find no one. Then he remembered one of the living of Stratford, and regarding it as a direct call from God, he immediately turned away from his duty to undertake the nursing of the children of Stratford.

HOW ONE WOMAN REGAINED HEALTH

Utterly Helpless and Friends Did Not Expect Her to Get Better

The great fame of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is due to the fact that they have restored to active health and strength hundreds of people when all other treatment had failed. For years prior to our coming to Canada, and since that time up to about three years ago, my wife had been subject to severe illnesses from what the doctors said was chronic anemia. She was utterly and entirely helpless, and so weak that she had to be lifted in and out of bed for weeks at a stretch. The doctors were aggravated by recurrent rheumatism and heart trouble. She had no appetite or strength for anything but the best medical attendance and nurses procurable. The doctor gave her tonics and medicine without relief for a time, and then she began to feel worse. If anything, then, she began giving her advertisement. One evening while reading a newspaper I noticed an advertisement for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I read the case of a young woman who had been suffering from anemia, and who testified to having been cured through the use of these Pills. I was so interested in the story, and the symptoms of my wife, and although I had pretty nearly lost all hope of her getting better, I decided to get a supply of the Pills and urged her to use them. My wife was thoroughly convinced that she expected it was only another case of money thrown away. However, she began taking the Pills, and I thank God she did, for after she had used them for a time, she felt that her appetite came back, her color began to return, and she who had been looked upon as a helpless invalid began to take a new interest in life. She continued taking the Pills, and through her health continued to improve, until at last we were able to bravely congratulate her upon her complete restoration to health. Some three years have since passed, and in that time she has never been bothered with the slightest degree of ailment, and we know that which I had brought her back to health from the brink of the grave.

What is a trade-war?

It is a battle in which no blood is spilled, but which can bear results every bit as serious as those which occur in the actual field of war. Two great organizations are pitted against each other. Silently, with scarcely a sound, above the scratching of a pen, the more powerful faction presses its opponent back, and upon the issues depends the welfare of thousands, many of whom have no idea that any kind of battle is being fought at all.

In the present trade-war between Lord Cowley and the Standard Oil Co., John Bull is standing in the ring with Uncle Sam, and is knocking him out. They are fighting over the great oil-fields of Mexico, and, although the Standard Oil Co. have used every means in their power to outwit their English rival, and even employed spies to shadow him in New York, they have found their match. The British Oil magnate is beating them at their own game.

The Standard Oil Co. have not had many such reverses. Forty-five years ago, Mr. John D. Rockefeller realized the great possibilities that lay in oil, formed a syndicate, and proceeded to buy up every rival syndicate. He obtained practically a high price for his oil, in order to gain absolute control. If he refused to sell, he either retained oil in his hands, or else actually gave it away, until they were forced, through lack of business, to admit themselves beaten.

A particularly interesting trade-war was that fought recently between the host of small American tobacco companies, and the Standard Oil Co. The American Tobacco Co. was one of the most formidable syndicates that ever threatened the small oil companies. They had placed wonderful "Surprise Packages" and other advertising devices in the hands of their salesmen. They had blazoned the walls with enormous posters. One company had spent $1,000,000 in advertising, and was at the principal feature, "Battle Axe Logo," the price of which under small prices of fivepence, the American elastic-gate chewer could buy a plump of "Battles" for three inches, and over half-inch thick, and a foot long.

But when these two rivals banded together, and invaded England under the banner of The American Tobacco Co., they found themselves absolutely defeated. By offering a bonus of $1,000,000 a year for four years to all the English retailers who would buy the cigarettes, and nobody else's, they won the battle. They hoped to get the entire monopoly of the tobacco trade in England. Before temptation had spread too far, however, the English tobacco companies banded together and formed themselves into The Imperial Tobacco Co. The Americans, independent merchants, found themselves face-to-face with a solid front, representing the entire tobacco interest of the British Isles. So they packed up their cheap cigarettes, and took the next boat home.

But the matter did not end there. The Standard Oil Co. had been defeated, but their big bonuses, and who had received only one half year's payment, urged the American Company for the balance. The first time the Americans refused to pay, arguing that, as their monopoly had been liquidated, their liabilities had also ceased to exist. A test case was decided against them, however, and they were forced to pay the balance. They had left the English bull-dog alone—London Answers.

Toile's Tears.

Salaries of almost childlike high spirits endeared the late J. L. Toole, the lifelong friend of Henry Irving, to all who knew him. On one occasion, when the author of "Some Eminent Victorians" was spending a few days in complete retirement, Mr. Toole was a genius in originating, they went to the Towar, where they found them in the chamber where the crown jewels are on view.

It was a Victorian who was explaining to the artist through the history of the erie displayed. The end of a long catalogue he said: "Toole, this is Anne Boleyn's crown." "And this," he said, "is the crown of the world's most famous beauty, who was buried in a flood of tears, and leaped against the wall in seemingly uncontrollable grief.

"Oh, sir," inquired the poor woman, in distress, "what is the matter?" "Nothing! Nothing!" replied Toole, in broken accents. "Don't mind me; but the fact is, I have known the family so long."

A Weighty Family.

William Snell, of Na-Nar Goon, Victoria, sends us some particulars of his own family, which he thinks will be of interest as showing that Victoria holds the world's record for family giants. Mr. Snell's family consists of two girls and a boy, and the total weight of the three is over half a ton.

Clara, the eldest of the trio, is 23 years of age, and weighs 414, being the heaviest female known in the world. Tom, her brother, is 19 years old, and weighs 260; and Anna, the youngest, is 15 years of age, and weighs 165, and already weighs 355. For these particulars, readers can see that Mr. Snell's family is being able to challenge the world is no idle boast—World's News.

FOOTBALL

The football game played here on Saturday last between Bellevue and Frank was one of the most evenly contested games ever seen around this district. The game opened fast and furious but the wind blew so strong that the players could not control the ball perfectly. Bellevue had most of the play in the first half and were awarded a penalty from which Hesketh scored and half time arrived with the score one to all in favour of Bellevue. After the restart Frank had the most of the play for about twenty minutes during which time L. Aslam and R. Petrie scored for them. Great excitement prevailed when Bellevue was awarded another penalty, but alas! the ball took a notion to go over the bar and not between the sticks. Bellevue at this time were pressing very hard and were rewarded by Brownie who scored with a beautiful shot. Bellevue continued to press till the finish and a very inter-
